High Court Study Proposed To Settle Railway Dispute

Envoy Harriman Is Briefed For Moscow Mission

WASHINGTON (AP)—Veteran diplomat W. Averell Harriman gets some last-minute instructions today from President Kennedy on the eve of his nuclear mission to Moscow.

The top-level strategy session also will bring Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and other officials to the White House in the afternoon.

Harriman, undersecretary of state for political affairs, will represent the United States at nuclear test ban talks opening in the Soviet capital on Monday. He leaves Wednesday, planning to stop over in London for a day's conference with Lord Hailsham, who will represent Britain.

Since the three-nation talks were set up, Soviet Premier Khrushchev proposed linking the test ban problem to an East-West nonaggression pact.

Although Harriman, a former ambassador to Moscow, can be expected to listen carefully to what the Russians have to say about a pact, he and Hailsham are in no position to negotiate an agreement between the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the Warsaw Pact nations, officials said.

NATO has 15 members and however, important the roles played by the United States and Britain, officials said they have no mandate from their partners to enter into meaningful negotiations on such an issue.

Four-Day Holiday Traffic Killings Hit Record 556

CHICAGO (AP)—The final count of the nation's traffic accidents during the long Independence Day weekend showed 556 persons killed, a record for the four-day holiday.

The death toll, reported over a 102-hour period from 6 p.m. Wednesday to midnight Sunday, topped the previous four-day Independence Day high of 509 set in 1961. The National Safety Council had estimated a death toll of 550 to 650.

The holiday total compares with an average of 100 traffic fatalities per day during the first five months this year.

Eastern G. O. P. Ranks Split On 1964 Candidate

WASHINGTON (AP)—Influential Eastern Republicans appear to be making little progress toward picking a candidate to back in the 1964 GOP presidential nomination race.

Reports that former President Dwight D. Eisenhower has turned thumbs down on both Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona and New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller indicate a split with the old pro who helped the general become president—former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York.

Dewey, who proved in three conventions from 1944 through 1952 that he knew how to get the nomination for himself or the man of his choice, has committed himself to Rockefeller as "the logical nominee."

The two-time presidential candidate took this action shortly after Rockefeller's marriage to the former Margaretta Murphy, and there has been no sign of any withdrawal of this commitment.

Sens. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., and Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., remain loyal to Rockefeller, Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., who used to get in a plug for the New York governor now and then, recently has confined himself to saying that Rockefeller's marriage hasn't helped him politically.

Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., is beating the drums for Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania as a favorite son candidate. Scranton, who once thought Rockefeller would make a good nominee, now doesn't seem so sure.

Scranton, Gov. George Romney of Michigan, Sen. Thurston B. Morton, R-Ky., and Gen. Lucius D. Clay reportedly drew mention from Eisenhower as men who ought not to be overlooked in the contest for the nomination.

Ammunition Blast Kills Man; 21 Hurt

Argentina Rivals May Pool Votes

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—The candidates of two estranged political parties—the leader and runner-up in Sunday's presidential election—today showed signs of wanting to make peace.

The Popular Radical party headed by Arturo Illia, 62, a country doctor, led with 2,367,154 votes, 25 per cent of the ballots. The Intransigent Radical party of Oscar Alende, 54, a city surgeon, was second with 1,525,384 votes, 16.3 per cent.

Illia and Alende head segments of the old middle-of-the-road Radical party which split in 1956. Illia needed 51 per cent of the vote to assure his election in the Electoral College which meets July 31. Under the Argentine system, electors are permitted to switch their votes to other candidates if their candidates fail to achieve the 51 per cent requirement.

Both Sides Have Until Wednesday To Consider Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy proposed today that Supreme Court Justice Arthur J. Goldberg be empowered to decide all issues in the dispute between the railroads and the operating unions over work rules.

J. E. Wolfe, chief negotiator for the railroads, told newsmen of Kennedy's proposal at the conclusion of a White House parley of both sides in the dispute.

He said that if both sides accept the work rules will not be put into effect until Goldberg has made his binding report.

Wolfe said the report would be made before the Supreme Court convenes for its 1963-64 term in October.

Wolfe said he thinks the date would be prior to Sept. 30.

He said both sides to the dispute have until 10 a.m. Wednesday to "carefully consider the proposal."

Strike Deadline Thursday

He said the carriers will give the President's proposal the "most profound consideration." "More than anyone we are interested in a peaceful conclusion to this dispute which could undoubtedly turn into a national catastrophe," Wolfe said.

Goldberg, a former labor lawyer, was appointed to the Supreme Court after serving as Secretary of Labor in Kennedy's Cabinet.

Taking part in the White House session were top officials of the railroad industry and the five operating unions who threaten an immediate strike if the lines put in their manpower-cutting work rules at 12:01 a.m. Thursday as planned.

Talks To Legislators

Kennedy conferred earlier today with Democratic congressional leaders.

After the breakfast meeting, House Speaker John McCormack, D-Mass., said the railway dispute was discussed only generally.

"Nothing was gone into in detail because the President will meet with representatives of management and the unions," McCormack told newsmen.

The four-day dispute over new work rules bounced back into the President's lap Monday when Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz made a final report on the futile attempts of his department to bring about a settlement despite day and night efforts.

Kennedy on June 15 set a July 10 deadline for company and union representatives to resolve their differences. Terming a strike and its effect on the nation's economy "intolerable," Kennedy said he would seek legislative action if needed to prevent a rail tie-up.

Jobs "Unnecessary"

The railroads claim that jobs they describe as unnecessary are costing $600 million a year. The unions claim the work force is efficient and should be maintained at its present number for safe operation of the trains.

In the event of a strike, the unions have offered to continue working on passenger and commuter trains under the old work rules and to move troops, military supplies "or food for the public welfare to prevent public distress" if the need is certified by the President. They said their wages under such circumstances would go to a charitable organization.

James J. Reynolds, Assistant Secretary of Labor and the government's key mediator in the dispute, said today's meeting was called to impress on the group "the seriousness of the situation and to get from them one last expression before any legislative action is taken."

Reynolds and Wirtz also were invited to the meeting in the President's office.

Auto Repair Shops Raided In Havana

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Government authorities have raided four clandestine auto repair shops in Havana and arrested their owners, the Cuban radio reported.

The broadcast said Monday that the shop operators were speculating in parts. One man was accused of setting a price of $20 on a clutch plate worth $2.88.

State Lawmakers Face Big Job On New Constitution

LANSING (AP)—A legislative committee has been asked to complete preparations for implementing Michigan's new Constitution in time to allow Gov. George Romney to issue a special session call shortly after Labor Day.

The joint House-Senate committee, which is coordinating planning for legislation to carry out the intent of the Constitution, reviewed preliminary aspects of the imposing task that will face lawmakers this fall.

Richard Van Dusen, Romney's legal advisor, told newsmen that he hopes most of the bills needed to implement the document can be prepared by the end of August.

Van Dusen said he believed the governor would want to issue the message outlining the scope of the special session in the first week of September. The session also will tackle the problem of fiscal reform.

But Rep. Rollo Conlin, R-Tipton, committee chairman, told newsmen he doubted that the estimated 45-55 bills needed for the session could be drafted by that time.

"However, the call could be is-used by the governor—with a broadening of the scope of the call later through another message," Conlin explained.

Monday's committee meeting, he said, was called mainly to review the recommendations of Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley.

In a 31-page memorandum last month, Kelley outlined the steps he said should be considered by the legislature at the special session. His staff is preparing a second report which will recommend action that should be taken early next year.

Conlin said one of the knotty problems facing the lawmakers is coordinating various sections of the revised Constitution. One example, he said, involves establishing a new court system and holding elections to fill the new posts.

Kelley's recommendations did not include his opinion on to what extent the provision in the new Constitution establishing a civil rights commission is self-implementing.

Kelley said his recommendations on this subject would be contained in a formal opinion being prepared for Sen. William Milliken, R-Traverse City.

Soviets Fire New Charges At China

MOSCOW (AP)—Communist Chinese negotiators failed to show up at the Moscow-Peking reconciliation talks today after the Soviet Union fired new charges at Red China and warned of "dangerous consequences."

The interruption in the ideological talks between the two Communist giants came as Belgian Foreign Minister Paul—Henri Spaak, returning from a meeting with Premier Khrushchev, predicted Soviet relations with the West will improve.

The Soviet Communist party central committee earlier today accused the Chinese of deliberately aggravating Soviet-Chinese relations at a time when the two countries are discussing ideological differences.

At the mansion in the Lenin

Hills section of Moscow where the talks have been held, Western correspondents noted the usual signs of pre-meeting activity today.

But at 11 a. m., more than an hour after the talks usually begin, there was still no sign of the Chinese. Soviet officials began leaving, and then police said the Chinese would not be coming.

The Chinese absence aroused speculation that they were awaiting Peking's reaction to the new Soviet attack. Some observers thought the Chinese might call an end to the sessions in retaliation.

The Soviet blast came shortly after Khrushchev snubbed the Moscow meeting with the Chinese and conferred in Kiev with Spaak on easing cold war tensions. The Chinese militantly oppose Khrushchev's peaceful coexistence policy, underlined by his meeting with Spaak.

The new Soviet party statement denounced speeches at a rally in Peking Sunday in support of five Chinese expelled from the Soviet Union. They had distributed reprints in the Soviet Union of the Chinese Communist party's long denunciation June 14 of Khrushchev's policies.

Manhunt Ended After 18½ Years

TOMPKINSVILLE, Ky. (AP)—"I wanted to do it worse than anything in my life," said Welby Lee.

He spoke after 18½ years of dogged search resulted in the arrest of a man on murder charges in connection with the hit-and-run death of Lee's father.

"I just kept thinking that someday I would hit the right spot," Newt Lee, 64, was killed on New Year's Eve 1944 by a car that hit him as he was crossing a road in a driving rain. A witness, Newt Lee's granddaughter—then 16, said the car stopped, the driver walked back to look at the body, returned to the auto, drove a few feet, returned to the scene, then roared away.

The only clue was an automobile bumper guard. "I was very close to my father. We were in the lumber business together. I was determined to find those men," said Welby Lee Monday night after the arrest in Indianapolis on second-degree murder charges of Grover Jonas, 54, a handyman.

Indianapolis police said Tennessee authorities traced the sale of the bumper guard to Jones. Lee said a grand jury in the Tennessee county—just across the line from this southern Kentucky town—indicted Jonas last month.

Romney Holds Tax Conference

MACKINAC ISLAND (AP)—The first of a series of planning meetings for the special fall tax reform legislative session will be staged at Mackinac Island today by Gov. George Romney and Republican members of the Senate.

The pivot question at the meetings is expected to be whether Romney will ask legislators to endorse a state income tax.

The governor reported a sentiment for the income tax—although a reluctant one—following his recent series of regional tax meetings.

More than half a dozen alternate tax plans were outlined by Romney at the regional meetings. All but one included a state income tax.

Romney has not yet said if he will go along with such a tax, repeatedly proposed by Democrats in past years but rejected by the Republican legislative majority.

Some 15 to 18 rank and file members of the Senate will attend the first meeting.

The group will gather at the governor's summer home in the late afternoon. This evening will be a social affair. Serious tax discussions will occupy most of Wednesday.

Two States Get Bigger Voices In G.O.P. Convention

WASHINGTON (AP)—California and Florida will have relatively bigger voices in the 1964 Republican convention while such states as West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Nevada, Connecticut and Louisiana will have substantially fewer votes than in 1960.

The tentative apportionment of delegates to the GOP presidential nominating convention in San Francisco next July calls for a total of 1,208—each with one vote—compared with 1,331 four years ago.

The apportionment is made up by the Republican National Committee under a formula approved by the 1960 convention.

The Democrats, who meet next year in Atlantic City, don't expect to announce their apportionment of delegates until this fall.

California and Florida Republicans drew hefty increases mostly because the increases in their populations entitled them to more congressional representation. The GOP apportionment of delegates is based partly on the number of congressional districts in a state.

California gets 86 votes next year compared with 70 in 1960. Florida will have 34, an increase of eight.

New York will have the biggest delegation with 92 votes, down four.

West Virginia was the biggest loser, dropping from 22 votes in 1960 to 14 next year. Nevada, Pennsylvania, Connecticut and Louisiana each will lose six.

If Mississippi or Louisiana should elect Republican governors in upcoming elections, each would get six more bonus votes. Under the plan adopted by the 1960 convention, each state gets a minimum of two votes for each senator, two for each representative at large, and a bonus of six if the state voted Republican in the 1960 presidential election or chose a Republican governor or senator then or in a subsequent election.

Additionally, each congressional district gets two votes unless it failed to draw at least 12,000 Republican votes in the 1960 presidential election or House race in that district in 1960 or subsequently.

Girl, 5, Missing Since Monday In Gaylord Region

GAYLORD (AP)—Hopeful state police today narrowed down the search area for 5-year-old Kai Benjamin, missing since Monday, after finding a tennis shoe and tracks they believe were made by the little Bloomfield Hills girl.

Capt. Harold Moore said the searchers were confining their hunt for Kai in a big wooded area near Gaylord where the tracks and shoe were discovered this morning.

"It looks like she's in there," Moore said.

He said the footprints showed the girl was walking with one shoe on and one off.

Dryness in the area, Moore said prevented state police dogs from picking up the little girl's scent.

Included in the search for the missing girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Royce Benjamin, are 100 National Guardsmen, 28 state policemen, three helicopters, seven dogs and civilian volunteers.

Beamman, 72, is a former owner and breeder of both thoroughbred and harness race horses. He will replace the present commissioner, Edgar Hayes, effective Aug. 15.

In announcing the appointment, Romney said he was glad to have a "man with Beamman's capabilities to serve in the position."

Both Romney and Beamman served together as delegates to the Constitutional Convention.

Delta's Welfare Spending Drops; Peninsula's Too

Direct relief spending in Delta County, which showed a healthy decline in May from 147 cases a year ago to 113 this year, took another dip in June, reports Lyle Plowman, Delta County welfare director.

The Delta situation was reflected in a generally improved Upper Peninsula welfare picture.

In May a year ago Delta paid out $9,146 in direct relief and this May $8,487 was spent.

In June a year ago there were 143 cases and outlay of $9,791 and last month there were 90 cases and cost was $7,400.

In the Upper Peninsula's 15 counties only four reported more direct relief cases in May than a year ago. The increases were in Baraga, Mackinac, Menominee and Schoolcraft counties.

Mackinac went from 40 to 41 cases, Menominee from 97 to 107 and Schoolcraft from 45 to 70. In the U. P. there were 1,749 direct relief cases in May this year and 1,978 a year ago. Spending declined from $133,183 to $124,123 this May and Schoolcraft's figure was not included in the listing for this May.

Plowman said there are no employables on the relief rolls in Delta County and that jobs are available for all who seek them. He reported that distribution of surplus foods has declined, too, with many borderline cases closed out. In June this year there were 740 families eligible for surplus foods, the same number as a year ago, but the number of individuals certified has slipped from 2,516 to 2,189.

The State Department of Social Welfare reported that there were 134 patients at Pinecrest Medicare Facility operated by Delta, Menominee and Dickinson counties in May, and that $44,183 was spent on their care, of which $36,718 was from federal-state medicare funds and $7,465 from other sources including county funds.

Pinecrest provided 3,790 days of patient care of which 3,542 were under the Medical Aid to the Aged Act, 155 under old age assistance and other Social Security categories, and 93 for other patients. Cost of care per day at Pinecrest was $10.40, compared with a state medicare facility low of $4.70 in Lenawee County and a high of $23 in Genesee (Flint) County.

Alley Question Gets More Study

Should there be alleys in new residential areas of a city? The question will be considered further by the Escanaba Planning Commission in consultation with Paul Kreiger, planning expert, before decisions are made in the adoption of a precised plat.

The question came to the City Council last night as it prepared to act on a recommendation of the Planning Commission to adopt an ordinance amending a precised plat for an area west from S. 23rd St. and south of Ludington St.

Objections to the proposed plat were voiced by Chester Peak, representing the Seventh Day Adventist Church, and by Franklin Steede of Old State Road. Peak said the proposed plat would unnecessarily take from the Church for street purposes land which it needs.

For And Against

The Council was considering adopting the plat with exception of the area about which objections were received when the alley question was brought to the Council by George McEwen of Chicago, former Escanaban who had returned here for the Centennial celebration. McEwen is owner of property in the city but not in the plat question.

Alleys should be eliminated in platting residential areas said McEwen because: Patio and "back yard living" make alleys an intrusion of privacy; alleys are costly both to build and to maintain; they are a traffic hazard to children. McEwen advocated removal of alleys from the proposed plat.

Dale Vinette, chairman of the Planning Commission, said the proposal to eliminate alleys has been considered by the Commission and it was unanimously agreed after study that alleys are necessary and desirable.

The alleys are desirable for the location and servicing of utilities and the majority of property owners in Escanaba want them, Vinette said. In the Goulais Addition the absence of alleys "has not worked from the standpoint of maintenance and cost." Last spring the Commission voted "to continue the alley concept throughout the city."

Will Dredge Basin

The Council voted to hold in abeyance action on adoption of the precised plat until the Commission has further opportunity to consider the question with its planning consultant.

In other business the Council: Received four bids for the proposed dredging of the yacht basin near the "L" dock. Apparent low bid was that of Gallagher Marine of Escanaba. The bids will be referred to the Michigan Waterways Commission for analysis and approval, since the state shares half the cost of the project, Gallagher's bid was $6,678.20.

Dale Sviland of Escanaba was the apparent low bidder for the painting of the exterior of the city-owned Northern Motor Builders on 1st Ave. N. His bid of $1,695 was the lowest of three received and the bids were referred to the head of the public works department with authority to accept the low bid.

Four bids were received by the Council for fleet insurance, and they were referred to City Controller Frank Bourke for analysis and recommendation.

Kiwanians Given Talk On P & H

Facts and figures on the history and products of the Harnischfeger Corp. were given to the Escanaba Kiwanis Club Monday by Frank Kaim, local Kiwanian who is superintendent of the Harnischfeger truck crane plant at Escanaba.

Kaim explained that the "P&H" trademark of the corporation dated back to 1884, when two young men, Alonzo Pawling and Henry Harnischfeger, joined in partnership to open up a machine shop in Milwaukee. The trademark was retained after the withdrawal of Pawling from the firm in 1911.

Foreign markets show a preference for American-made machines, Kaim said, and the export trade takes 50 per cent of the production of the Milwaukee Harnischfeger plant and 20 per cent of the Escanaba plant. The corporation is expanding in foreign fields, among them Australia, where Herman Menck, formerly of Milwaukee and Escanaba, is directing a new installation.

Harnischfeger started at Escanaba in 1947 with a welder plant and the truck crane plant went into operation in 1949. The latter plant offers a choice of 32 models, ranging in price from around $25,000 to $90,000. Lifting capacities of the cranes range from 15 to 90 tons and the firm is projecting a new unit with 125-ton lift.

The high mark of the P&H payroll at Escanaba plants was over $5,200,000 in 1962, with more than 1,100 employed, and this year a payroll of over $4,000,000 is indicated. The present goal is 50 machines per month at the truck crane plant. At Escanaba, 95 per cent of the employees are trained locally, and the corporation has an agreement with the local UAW-CIO union extending through 1965.

Kiss Me, Kate Is Calumet Offering

Shakespeare has seldom had it so good as he does in "Kiss Me, Kate" opening at the Keweenaw Playhouse, Calumet, July 9 with Lillian Wilder and Ken Bridges in the starring roles of this most successful of Cole Porter's musicals. It ties together the Bard's rough and tumble comedy, "The Taming of the Shrew," with a modern parallel tale of a ternaunt and her determined master. Of all the numerous revivals of the Shakespeare classic in this country, none has approached the 1,077 performances achieved by the musical adaptation by Sam and Bella Spewack, accompanied by such Porter gems as "Always True To You In My Fashion" and the romantic "So In Love Am I."

Guard Opening Camp Grayling

CAMP GRAYLING — Advance detachments from most Michigan Army National Guard units pulled into Camp Grayling Friday and began erecting the nearly 1,000 tents that will house 7,500 of the state's 8,000 Guardsmen.

The Guardsmen are starting their annual two weeks summer field training.

While they were arriving, Michigan National Guard engineers from the UP's 107th Engineering Bn., were coming in from seven days of back breaking and tedious work. The nearly 500 engineers from Ishpeming, Calumet, Marquette, Baraga, Manistique and Gladstone began their field training one week early.

While in the field the engineers constructed two mile long infantry "live fire" training sites, and put nine others, constructed by National Guard and Reserve units from other states into operation.

The major construction projects were handled by Co. A of the 107th Engineers from Calumet, Co. C from Baraga, and Co. E from Gladstone.

The construction included about 30 demolition pits used to simulate exploding mortar shells, "pop-up" targets, and several control bunkers plus the necessary wiring and cable from the bunkers to the pits and targets. The pits are operated electrically from the bunker, the targets are operated mechanically.

Co. B of Marquette and Co. D of Manistique have finished putting several training sites already constructed into operation. The work was tedious and at times difficult.

About 150 underground electrical circuits had to be tested plus a like number of "pop-up" targets. The targets are operated by underground cables running through a system of pulleys.

Did Jesus Come From Nazareth?

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Was Jesus from Nazareth? Indeed, was there a Nazareth in his time, or was it invented to satisfy pilgrims to the place where Jesus lived?

A workman's accidental discovery of a fragment of a Hebrew inscription on marble may help answer these questions. The fragment is being studied by the Israeli Department of Antiquities of Hebrew University.

Shalom Attiah noticed the chunk of marble in his wheelbarrow at an excavation site at Caesarea, Israel, on the Mediterranean Coast.

Dr. Jerry Vardaman, archaeology professor at the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, who had charge of the digging, recalled that workmen had been told to be watchful because some searchers were growing disheartened and careless near the end of the season.

The seminary has a copy of the fragment, which is said to add evidence that Nazareth did exist in the time of Jesus. The inscription on the marble was part of a list of Jewish priestly families and the towns where they lived in Galilee.

Authorities place the fragment in the period of the late second to the fourth century, A.D. Dr. Vardaman said the inscription contains the earliest known Hebrew references to Nazareth.

Many scholars have contended that Jesus lived in Chorazin or Capernaum. The Name "Nazareth" as applied to Jesus sometimes is said to refer to a pre-Christian religious group.

Skepticism on the subject was noted in the Encyclopedia Biblica.

"It is very doubtful whether the beautiful mountain village of Nazareth itself was really the dwelling place of Jesus. No such town as Nazareth is mentioned in the Old Testament, in Josephus, or in the Talmud."

Dr. Vardaman said he is certain some sort of settlement existed at the present site of Nazareth in Jesus' time.

He said recent excavations there—along with the prize find of the fragment—have produced strong archeological support for the scriptural statement that Jesus was from Nazareth.

Trailer Caravan Visit

Escanaba, having wound up its Centennial celebration, is host this week to the Wally Byam Caravan, on its first visit to the Upper Peninsula. The caravanners are in Air-stream trailers, made originally by the late Wally Byam as a backyard enterprise and now products of a lusty industry.

The owners of the vehicles gather for caravan trips like the present one in which they rendezvoused at Bemidji, Minn., and came here in the weekend for a week's stay before moving eastward into Canada.

In August Airstream will sponsor an Around the World Caravan in which 100 or more trailers embark for Singapore and points west. The tour through India and beyond will be led by President Andrew Charles of Airstream, Inc., who was a friend of Byam, who originated the caravan idea. The caravan tours within the United States may be as short as a month, a tour abroad may last as long as a year. The average caravan lasts 6 weeks and every summer there's one to Canada, alternating between eastern and western Canada, and every winter there's a tour to Mexico.

The caravanners are mostly retired people and they're from all walks of life. Obviously none of them are poor. Their trailers are numbered for identification to facilitate organization of the tours and everyone wears a blue beret with Wally Byam insignia so tour members can identify fellow members. They don't travel very fast because they want to see the country.

The caravan is a dramatic example of the change that has overtaken America. The only caravans which used to cross the Upper Peninsula regularly were those of horse trading and fortune telling gypsies. The sheriffs used to harass the nomads, hurrying them out of their counties to avoid the rash of complaints they expected if they lingered. None of their black wagons have been seen for many years and we must learn our fortunes in other ways now. One of the most popular seems to be to write a postcard to the Social Security Division of the Department of Health Education and Welfare and ask how much Uncle has got in our kitty and how long we have to wait to get it.

And here we have the Wally Byam Caravan with 400 trailers enjoying a leisurely week in Escanaba enroute east. If the Gypsies mustered four wagons they were doing well and they were reputed to be careless with honesty and the Byamites are the soul of it, so it's obvious that times have changed mightily and that they've improved. We didn't used to manage to retire until it was to the marble orchard and now we not only do it but set off to see the world when we knock off work.

What the trailer people mean to America can be seen in its 14,000 privately operated trailer parks. In a study of 177 trailerites in 70 family units in Florida a sociologist found 40 per cent were over 60, nearly 30 per cent were retired, at least 20 per cent of the families — mostly elderly couples — had rented, closed or sold their homes and had lived for more than five years in their travel trailers and that of this number 40 per cent planned to continue that way of life indefinitely.

This new way of mobile life has new customers; trailer people form friendships in a moment and frown on formal introductions. In their regional and national rallies the trailerites stress the economy, companionship and sense of belonging that results from their way of life, but there are other values they don't talk much about and seem only vaguely aware of.

Their outfit in a car and travel trailers can represent $9,000 or more and after that the payoff begins, with overnight stops incurring an expense of about $2 and longer stays at trailer courts with pools and other facilities costing from $25 to $50 a month in resort areas. Travel trailer wives are proud of their skills in producing good meals in restricted space and oldsters say that if they were dependent upon the food to be found in some of the places on their routes they'd never travel.

All speak of the companionship of trailer travel. Most belong to clubs, have numbers on their trailers and their names in directories; ham operators talk by radio on short-wave band. Virtually all are well fixed and have few financial worries and trailer travel gives them a form of escape and a welcome new form of life that makes them bright-eyed enthusiasts. Illness may end the tour, but they take each day as it comes and regard trouble as distant and mostly for stay-at-homes.

Expensive Words

"Without objection, so ordered."

Those routine words, offered repeatedly each day from the presiding officer's chair in the United States House and Senate, signal permission to lawmakers to insert into the Congressional Record all manner of odds and ends which may have little to do with lawmaking.

Suddenly, one day not long ago, there was an objection, from Rep. Wayne Hays, Ohio Democrat. He decided it was time to hold the record to those things which really happen in Congress.

It would have meant an end to insertion of countless speeches never delivered, as well as of a wide variety of self-serving material designed to impress the folks back home. All, of course, at the taxpayers' expense.

Hays estimated the extra padding in the Record costs $250,000 a year to print. That sounds conservative. But two and one-half million a decade is not small change, when the frivolous purpose is considered.

Of course Hays lost his battle. House members were enraged at losing this choice outlet for their assorted nonsense.

He promises nevertheless to keep good track of the padding hereafter. It would be interesting to know, too, how the biggest Record padders vote on measures for general economy in government.

Let's Poison Us

Take a large bowl of potato salad, a dozen ham salad sandwiches, one cream pie and odds and ends of munchables found in the ice box.

Place in a hamper. Place hamper in trunk of the car. Park car in hot sun at your destination. Let lunch simmer while you play for several hours.

That's all—but that's enough to ruin your weekend. If staphylococci bacteria are present in any of the foods, you've set the table for a dandy case of food poisoning.

The better bet, say medical authorities: Carry all perishables, chilled in advance, in refrigerated containers. Mix salad ingredients on the spot, using previously unopened salad dressing. Make sandwiches on the spot from meat taken from original containers, or cook meat on the spot.

No one wants to spoil the good eating that is so much a part of summer's fun. But it is necessary to add one vital ingredient to picnic plans:

Mix with common sense.

Edson In Washington

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The next six months may be as lateful as any half-year since the end of World War II. Developments now coming to a head are important to the United States internationally and on the domestic front as well.

Moscow talks between Russian and Red Chinese leaders may set the course for the future of communism. A widening split between the two camps, which now seems likely, greatly alters the international balance of power in Asia.

The most immediate result might be a decision on the resumption of Red China's attack on India later this year. Finally aroused to the Communist menace, India is now said to see that the real threat from Red China is its advance through Burma and Indo-China into the Malay peninsula.

The threat of further Communist penetration into Southeast Asia has been increased by British failure to persuade the Russians to help stop the fighting in Laos. Pakistan's foolish flirtations with Red China as an ally that might help against India further heighten the prospect for trouble in South Asia.

After the Russia-Red China talks in Moscow come American-British-Russian negotiations in a nuclear test ban. The outcome will indicate whether the threat of nuclear warfare becomes more acute or is eased. If the latter, there may be some hope for eventual progress towards disarmament.

President Kennedy's trip to Europe is being hailed as a great personal triumph, making clear America's continued support for Europe. But the extent to which the mission advanced American objectives for a strengthened North Atlantic Treaty Organization is still uncertain.

The proposed NATO multi-lateral nuclear force, armed with Polaris missiles, has been temporarily shelved. It may never come into being as long as the opposition of French President Charles de Gaulle continues.

British and Italian governments are weak and may fall. The German government will change this autumn with the retirement of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer. The Netherlands faces elections. Stability in Europe is questionable.

The failure of Europe to unite in a common market or for meaningful trade and tariff negotiations with the United States weakens the whole Atlantic alliance at a time when it needs to show strength against the Communist front. The possibility that the Russians may revive the Berlin crisis at any time is a constant threat.

The Near East, Africa and Latin America are in a ferment of development, still unsure they can govern themselves as democracies. Argentina, with elections set for July 7, is battling against a revival of Peronism. Brazil, Venezuela and British Guiana are prime targets for Communist infiltration, some of it exported from Cuba.

The continued presence of Russian troops in Cuba remains the most serious irritation to the United States. The State Department now maintains there are not enough Russian combat troops left in Cuba to put down a Hungarian-type uprising.

If these Russian troops should start shooting Cubans, the United States has made clear to the Soviets there will be American intervention. A showdown this year is not ruled out.

Six months from now there will be a clearer picture on how many of these problems have worked out. Depending on whether they are Kennedy administration victories or defeats, their effects on the American presidential and congressional elections in 1964 will be great.

ARA FUND OPPOSED

June is traditionally a big spending month in Congress, and this year was no exception. The House appropriated over $55 billion dollars, much in the area of national defense.

By far the biggest money bill passed by the House each year provides funds for the Defense Department. This year the bill totaled $47.1 billion, a cut of $1.9 billion (3.9 per cent) from the President's budget requests, and $700 million less than the 1963 amount. These cuts were made judiciously, and will in no way hamper defense capabilities.

Three other appropriation bills were passed, two of which I supported. One of $6 billion was for the Department of Agriculture, and was six per cent below budget requests. The second was for the Department of State, Justice, and Commerce in the amount of $1.85 billion, a cut of 14.3 per cent from budget requests and $292 million less than last year.

I did not support the Legislative Appropriation bill, which is the money Congress spends on itself. While this bill, in the amount of $140 million, represents only a small fraction of federal spending, it was 20 per cent higher than last year. I felt there were far too many unnecessary projects and programs included. I feel that Congress cannot ask other agencies of government to cut their budgets unless it first shows some self-restraint.

On June 12, by a 209 to 204 vote the House defeated a proposal to authorize additional funds for the Area Redevelopment Administration. There were a number of sound reasons for rejecting this request. To begin with, ARA has been in existence for nearly half of its four year trial period, yet it has committed only some 22 per cent of the funds originally granted it. Even if every single application made so far was approved, ARA would still have over one-third of its original grant left. Thus there are more than ample funds available to complete the trial period.

Secondly, there has been much criticism, and rightly so, of the way this program has been operated. During the debate on the bill numerous examples of maladministration were cited, a few of which in fiscal year 1962 over 35 per cent of the public facilities loans and 13 per cent of the public facilities grants were allotted to one single Oklahoma project, a plush resort in an area that suffers far less from unemployment than many other areas of the country, including Northern Michigan.

So far in fiscal 1963 22 per cent of these public facility loans and grants have gone for an auditorium in Duluth, Minn. It will provide a mere 22 permanent jobs, at a cost of well over a quarter of a million dollars per job.

There has also been ample evidence that the ARA has been used as a political weapon of the Kennedy Administration, and that several industries have been "pirated" from one area to another, thus creating jobs only by adding to unemployment at the original location. Both of these actions are contrary to the clearly expressed intent of Congress. For the above reasons, among others, I joined in voting against the ARA bill.

Once again this month Congress took the almost automatic step of renewing the "temporary" wartime excise and corporate tax rates which were scheduled to lapse on June 30, 1963. I voted against the bill because I felt it a breach of faith with taxpayers.

The House on June 19 again passed a bill suspending the radio and TV equal time requirements for Presidential campaigns, which will make possible a repeat performance of the "great debates." I supported this measure, as I feel these debates serve the valuable purpose of allowing our citizens to judge presidential candidates in face-to-face confrontation.

Congressman Victor A. Knox

CONGRESSIONAL LETTER

The space program has taken on a new and increased interest for me since I was named a member of the House Committee on Science and Astronautics. The committee, headed by Rep. George P. Miller (D-Calif.) has 31 members. Most of the committee work is done by subcommittees and I serve on the Space Sciences Subcommittee.

The space program is vital to our defense; to basic research, and to the free world's efforts in the competition with Russia for control of space. It also has an important impact on various segments of the nation's economy. Those states which have been quick to tie their scientific and industrial talents together are leading the nation in development of space-connected industry.

Michigan is among them, but much too far down the list. The economic significance of the space age strikes home when you compare federal expenditures for space research and technology in recent years.

In 1949, the federal budget included $49 million for space research and technology. In 1960, we spent $401 million—and this year we are spending $2.4 billion. This is why it is so important for Michigan to work even harder at developing its space-connected industrial potential.

The Senate has passed and sent to the House a measure to establish a Youth Conservation Corps, limited during the first year to 15,000 members, 16 to 21. The youths would receive $60 a month plus room, board, clothing and medical care. The program is similar to the successful CCC of the 1930's.

The first significant action in education was taken in the House, April 24, when the $175 million aid to medical education bill was passed 288 to 122. This will provide construction money for badly-needed medical teaching and training facilities and six-year loans for medical students.

The Accelerated Public Works program, designed to encourage public works projects for water, sewerage systems, etc., in economically distressed areas, provided $29 million in job creating federal funds for Michigan since the program began last year. Congress has voted to approve the balance of $450 million authorized under last year's act.

Other important measures still before Congress include the Mass Transit Bill, providing aid to our urban areas, which has passed the Senate; Hospital Insurance for the Aged under Social Security (Medicare), which I introduced in the House, and the Sleeping Bear National Seashore Bill. I joined Senator Philip A. Hart, who has pioneered this bill, by introducing the same measure in the House.

Current opinion here is that the hospital insurance bill will be acted on next year rather than now. Prospects for Sleeping Bear passage are also good.

STUDENT DRINKING

I am impressed with the editorial, "Commencement Busts," in the June 8 issue of the Daily Press. High school graduation drinking experiences should cause the community, the parents, and the schools to ask themselves the question, "How well have they prepared their young people to accept the adult responsibilities of available alcohol?"

Schools have a legal responsibility to prepare children for this but our experience is that most schools are "ducking" this responsibility and graduation time is too late to begin thinking about it.

High school graduation should be the time when every school official puts a note on his calendar for September to make sure that his school is doing an adequate job in alcohol education.

Council Opposes Flight Reduction

The Escanaba City Council not only opposes the suspension of North Central flight service to Detroit via Traverse City but suggests that the passenger volume would improve if the flight provided a stop at Lansing.

A resolution objecting to the proposed suspension of the "Aerial Bridge" flight over Lake Michigan was adopted by the City Council last night and will be filed with the Civil Aeronautics Board.

City Manager George Harvey explained the situation and urged that the objection against the proposed suspension of service be filed. Mayor Harold Vanlerberghe remarked that it appeared incongruous that North Central's flights between the two Michigan

Under Conboy's proposed council, both UPAC and Action-UP would elect two representatives to the council. The council would maintain close contact with both groups and would coordinate special efforts in behalf of Upper Peninsula business and industry.

License Transfer

The Council was in agreement that traffic volume would grow if Lansing could be made a stop, as well as Traverse City and Detroit, on the "Aerial Bridge" flight out of Escanaba. This will be urged by the city in its resolution to the Civil Aeronautics Board.

In other business the Council approved transfer of a Class C and SDM license in the name of Austin Pouliot, now held in escrow, from 809 Stephenson to 2626 Ludington St., where Pouliot has a bowling alley under construction.

Louis Jepson, Escanaba city employee, was commended in a communication received by the Council from Burt Gustafson, former Escanaban, and now assistant football coach, University of Wyoming. Gustafson wrote the Council that Jepson had found a purse that his wife had lost, and that they were grateful for his help in recovering money and valuable papers.

Centennial Success

A recommendation of the Civil Service Commission to amend Civil Service rules regarding annual leave for firemen was approved by the Council; and a communication from Harry Leisner regarding a traffic nuisance was received and City Manager Harvey said an effort will be made to remedy the situation.

Mayor Vanlerberghe expressed the appreciation of the Council to the many citizens who contributed as volunteer workers to the success of Escanaba's Centennial celebration.

Manager Harvey said the success of the program proved that Escanaba people could handle such a celebration without calling upon "outside" direction. Reports on the financial result of the Centennial will be received shortly, he added.

Escanaba's newest restaurant—Viit's Cupboard—is operated by Mrs. Ruby Viitala in the former quarters of Bell's Restaurant at 803 Ludington St.

Mrs. Viitala has had 15 years experience as a cook in Escanaba and served the Kallios 10 years in that capacity. Her late husband, Matt Viitala worked for the Chicago & North Western Railway.

Viit's Cupboard will be open 7 days a week from 6 a.m. to 9 p.m. serving meals and short orders.

Mrs. Viitala, of 716 1/2 Ludington St., has a daughter, Mrs. John Barbieri of Chicago.

The interior of the shop has been given a contemporary look through the use of wall paneling and modernistic lighting.

The former owners had booths lining the east wall of the restaurant and these have been replaced with tables and chairs to create a much more spacious appearance.

A grill has been installed behind the seating counter at the front of the building and this entire work is done in stainless steel.

Above the grill are five cone-shaped pierced brass lighting fixtures.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: It happened again last evening. I swore the next time it happened I would write to you and try to find out what is the matter with this woman.

My wife is a college graduate and the mother of three healthy normal children. She holds a high office in one of the women's clubs and is considered bright by our friends. Yet, whenever I go to the refrigerator to get ice cubes I find the empty trays. Why in heaven's name would anybody want to return a tray without water to the freezing compartment? And after all, Ann, how long does it take to run water in an icetray?

If you can explain this to me I will be immensely grateful. — TOTALLY MYSTIFIED

Dear Mystified: Why do some people leave lights burning — or throw a coat on a chair when it would take only seconds to flip a light switch or to hang the coat up? Because it's easier — and some people always take the easy way out.

If this bugs you, appoint yourself keeper of The Ice Cube Trays and check them every evening. It's better than apoplexy.

Dear Ann Landers: Our mother drinks. I don't mean just a cocktail at parties. I mean all by herself — during the afternoon. Sometimes the woman next door comes in and they get crooked together.

When my sisters and I come home from school mom is usually in terrible shape. Most days she doesn't make the beds or clean the house. We have to do the housework or it doesn't get done. Then I go to the market and beg for credit so I can have dinner on the table when dad comes home.

The weird part of the story is that mom will not admit she drinks. She says she has a headache or gall bladder trouble or dizzy spells from high blood pressure.

We notice in your column that you sometimes suggest Alcoholics Anonymous for problem drinkers. How can we get them to send a member over to talk to mom? Please help us. — DESPERATE KIDS

Dear Kids: Alcoholics Anonymous will send a member to talk to an alcoholic only if the person who needs help will admit he is an alcoholic and asks for the intervention of A. A.

Your mother, unfortunately, does not qualify.

Dear Ann Landers: Our 15-year-old daughter, Darlene, is at the stage where she thinks her parents are the most stupid, narrow-minded, old-fashioned and ignorant people in all the world.

You have expressed many views in your column which we have voiced first, but coming from us these judgments meant nothing. After Darlene read the very same advice in your column she conceded there was something to be gained from doing as you suggested.

Will you please say a few words about girls who telephone boys "just to talk." Our daughter is on the phone at least an hour and a half every evening. She calls up one boy after another — as many as four or five. She insists the boys like it. How about this? — DINOSAUR SET

Dear Dinosaur Set: Girls who telephone boys "just to talk" are considered aggressive. The boys who "like it" may be flattered to be chased by a girl but it doesn't do much for the girl's stock.

Tell Darlene the telephone works both ways. If she's smart she'll stay off the horn so a coy can call HER once in a while.

Confidential to WONDERING: You can stop wondering about this situation. The true measure of a man is how he treats people who can't possibly do him any good.

If alcohol is robbing you or someone you love of health and dignity, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Help For The Alcoholic," enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Record Chill Follows Heat

By The Associated Press
Record cold for July covered the northern states from Minnesota to New England today, bringing scattered frost and spots of light freeze to a section that a week ago sweltered in the high 90s.

Kane, commonly called the ice box of Pennsylvania, was the nation's coldest spot this morning. Its temperature fell to 30 degrees, the fourth reading in the 30s within a week for the community of 5,300 population.

Another freeze, at 31, was recorded at Whiteface Mountain in the Adirondacks. There were 33s at Bradford and Emporium, Pa., 34 at Araude in southwestern New York and 35 at Oneonta in south central New York.

Record lows for the date, all in the 40s, were set at Albany and Rochester, N.Y.; Worcester, Mass.; Burlington, Vt.; Pittsburgh; Akron and Columbus, Ohio and Flint and Lansing, Mich.

WLST's Comprehensive Centennial Coverage

Mobile Cruiser Offers Unique Service.....

Dick Drazba broadcast daily at the Band Shell, 1-5 p. m. and he made a flight with the famous Navy Chuting Stars and taped the actual jumping. He also covered the Queen Crowning Sunday night.

The WLST mobile unit cruised the area and made on-the-spot reports. Interviews were conducted with officers of the Destroyer Escorts Ely and Portage and ice-breaker Mackinaw right from the Municipal Dock. The log-rolling, canoe jousting and Cedar Skiers of Manitowoc water show were covered by the WLST Water Cruiser. Also the swimming and diving event. The Silver Spurs Club and 4-H Riding Club events were covered. The Go-Kart races at the Marina were covered by the Mobile Cruiser.

The K. I. Sawyer Air Show was covered by the Water Cruiser and the Red Knight of Canada Air Show, Bud Morin, also was covered.

The WLST coverage of the Centennial Parade was perhaps the most extensive, and WLST even used the sound truck to help the City Police clear Ludington prior to the Parade. Tom Hughson was covering the parade at 10th and Ludington, Eldon Wallace was covering the parade from the window of the Escanaba Daily Press and with special permission from the Escanaba City Police and the Chairmen of the Parade Event, Claude Tobin and Don Trotter, the Mobile Cruiser was able to cruise the entire parade area and bring listeners reports from the entire parade area.

The entire Manitowoc Water Ski Show was broadcast from the water cruiser anchored off Municipal Dock, and WLST's water cruiser also was on hand to greet six canoeists as they arrived in the Yacht Basin.

In addition, WLST's unique mobile cruiser performed many services other than direct broadcasting from the scene. Its crew helped people asking directions, locating officials, clearing the streets for the police, arranging housing, running errands and making announcements for Centennial officials.

Death Decreed For Reno Killer

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Thomas Lee Bean faced death in the Nevada gas chamber after being convicted of first degree murder Monday in the April 5 dismemberment-slaying of Sonja McCaskie, 24, former Olympic skier.

The 18-year-old high school youth, described at his trial as a rejected, unloved boy, stared at the jury foreman, Joseph Dettling, as the death penalty recommendation was read.

Dist. Judge Grant L. Bowen set July 15 for sentencing. Dist. Atty. William Raggio said the jury must follow the jury's recommendation.

Defense attorney Harry Anderson said he probably will appeal, depending on whether Bean wants a chance to escape the gas chamber. He said the boy, son of an itinerant salesman, had made a second attempt on his life in Washoe County jail last Tuesday. The first try, a wrist-cutting episode in May, was disclosed by a sheriff's deputy on the witness stand during the trial which began June 24.

The 20 white and Negro pickets sang "We Will Overcome," an integrationist anthem, as they demonstrated for more jobs for Negroes in the White Castle chain. White patrons inside retorted by singing "Dixie."

Rotary Program On Dental Care

Dr. Milton Keteik spoke on various types of plans of financing dental care at the Rotary meeting Monday.

He predicted in 10 years private practice of medicine and dentistry will be "a thing of the past." Insurance plans, a dental corporation functioning through banks, and union operation of clinics for its members were among types noted.

Some of the plans are seemingly based on a philosophy of "let somebody else take care of it," and in one type, dentists themselves would be assessed for amortization of cost of delinquent accounts, he observed. The program was arranged by John Mincoff.

Next week Rotarians will go to Gladstone after a luncheon meeting here, for the annual golf exchange.

In the business meeting Monday, Rotarians heard a recorded message from the international president on matching Rotary Club exchange programs. The district is matched with Venezuela, Surinam and British New Guinea for exchange of cultural information.

Suit On Panama Flag Dismissed

PANAMA (AP)—Federal District Judge Guthrie F. Crowe has dismissed an American's suit to bar Panama's flag from flying alongside the Stars and Stripes in the Panama Canal Zone.

Lawyers for the American, Gerald A. Doyle, said they were considering an appeal. Doyle, an employee of the Panama Canal Co., contended that Panama's flag flying over the U.S.-controlled Canal Zone was against the best interests of the United States.

The United States and Panama agreed last October to display the flags side by side after years of protests and demonstrations by Panamanians.

Sharkey Blames Soft Life For Boxing Decline

EPHING, N. H. (AP) — Apathy is hurting boxing and inactivity may do the same to heavyweight champion Sonny Liston, former heavyweight king Jack Sharkey says.

Sharkey blames the easy life of the times for the decline of the ring sport he loves.

"It's easy to point out why boxing and the interest in it is fading," Sharkey said. "All the kids look for today is the easiest way out. When I was a kid it was nothing for me to walk two or three miles for a loaf of bread. We were in shape in those days, we had to be."

"You can count on one hand today the number of real contenders in each division throughout the country. As a matter of fact, I bet you can't name three in each division that are strong contenders. At least I can't."

How about the coming Liston-Floyd Patterson rematch in Las Vegas?

"One thing stands out in my mind," Sharkey said. "This year's layoff may have hurt Liston more than Patterson."

"Sonny is more of a glory boy. In the long run, that could hurt."

Finley Seeking New Home For His Ball Club

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — American League President Joe Cronin confirmed today that Charles O. Finley, owner of the Kansas Club, had expressed interest in an executive session on the eve of the All-Star game in moving his Athletics to Oakland, Calif.

Cronin, however, emphasized that Finley had made "no formal request," to move the A's franchise. It would need at least eight affirmative ballots of the 10 owners to switch the franchise.

The Associated Press had learned exclusively Monday that Finley, rebuffed a year ago in his effort to move the A's to Dallas, was seeking a new home in California.

The Oakland City Council and the Alameda County Board of Supervisors recently approved issuing $25 million in revenue bonds to build a 48,500-seat all-purpose stadium in Oakland. The park, however, is not expected to be completed before 1965.

Horace Stoneham, president of the National League's San Francisco Giants, confirmed that Finley had approached him in an effort to secure the use of the Giants' Candlestick Park until the Oakland stadium was finished.

"Mr. Finley was in to see me 10 days or two weeks ago," Stoneham said in San Francisco. "He asked me if his club could play in Candlestick Park as a starter — until Oakland finished a proposed stadium."

"But I told him it would be better for him to establish himself directly in Oakland. As I understand it, Mr. Finley had talked to and received backing of certain interests in Oakland."

While denying that Finley had formally requested a move, Cronin said: "Mr. Finley discussed with us his problems in Kansas City, as he did a year ago, and expressed an interest in moving to Oakland. I cannot say any more at this time."

Other American League officials, at first hesitant to discuss the matter, acknowledged that a heated discussion had taken place on Finley's proposal. The move took the other owners completely by surprise.

Several American League owners, said privately a Kansas City to Oakland move would be welcomed since it would create a second Pacific Coast team to match the Los Angeles Angels, simplify travel arrangements, reduce costs for everyone and create a strong intra-state rivalry.

The A's, mired in the second division of the American League for the eight years they've been in Kansas City, are troubled with skidding attendance despite the promotional efforts of the fiery Finley, who gained controlling interest in December 1960.

The National Football League averaged 128.7 plays per game during 1962.

Detroit's Slump Extends To Gate

By JERRY GREEN

DETROIT (AP) — The Tigers have had woeful seasons on the field before, lots of them. But almost always they've laughed all the way to the bank anyway.

The slump isn't as funny this year. Detroit's diehard baseball fans, who've supported other losing teams, are staying away from Tiger Stadium.

The Tigers are being hit where it hurts most, the treasury, and unless there's a sharp jump in interest the club will lose money this season.

The club doesn't disclose its profits or losses. But the Tigers have a rule of thumb that they can break even by drawing 1,100,000 fans at home and 900,000 on the road. They've surpassed these figures every year since 1958.

This year's attendance is down by 180,522 after 37 home dates. The 1963 Tigers have drawn 480,623 fans with the home season a little more than half completed. That's an average of 12,964 ticket purchasers for each date.

Only 34 home dates remain. Projected over the remaining dates, the current average would yield a season of 921,399 customers at Tiger Stadium. That means the Tigers would fail to draw 1 million fans at home for the first time since 1953 and the second time since 1945.

This year's road attendance is 521,410 for 39 dates. The Tigers may hit their break — even target there although they'd down 72,651 fans on the road.

The front office is taking a realistic approach to the problem of dwindling attendance.

"We attribute our decline here to the way our club's played," said General Manager Jim Campbell. "That and the weather. It was the worst spring we've had in years."

Grier Is Traded; Giants Break Up Big Front Line

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Giants' famed defensive unit, the "Fearsome Foursome," is no more.

The Giants broke up the vaunted front line unit by trading tackle Roosevelt Grier to Los Angeles Monday for tackle John Lovetere and a high draft choice.

Grier, 31, a 6-foot-5, 290-pounder, combined with tackle Dick Modzelewski and ends Jim Katcavage and Andy Robustelli on the Giants' front line that helped win five Eastern Division titles and one National Football League championship.

Lovetere, 27, is 6-foot-4 and weighs 285. He has been in the league five seasons and three times has been chosen as the Rams top lineman.

"The Rams initiated the trade to strengthen their line," said

Giants coach Allie Sherman. "They feel that'll be an asset to the defense. But we feel it will help us, too, because in addition to getting Lovetere, the deal should solidify our backfield."

Sherman plans to use the draft choice as bait for a deal for a top running back.

Grier, who will be starting his eighth season in the league, and the other three members of the Giants' defensive unit played together every minute of every season except for 1957 when Grier was in the Army and a few games toward the end of the 1960 season when Katsavage was hurt.

At Los Angeles, Grier will join Harland Svare, an old teammate on the Giants and now Ram head coach.

"I rank him one of the top tackles in the league," Svare said. "All of his training and playing has been under the type of defense we will be teaching."

The Giants said Lovetere had impressed them in pre-season games.

Lovetere attended Campton Junior College but did not play football there. He was signed by the Rams as a free agent after he had played service football.

Funeral Services For Kearns Today

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Jack (Doc) Kearns would approve of the commotion surrounding his death.

The famed manager of ex-champion Jack Dempsey died Sunday at the age of 80. His funeral will be held at a funeral home at 3 p.m. Wednesday.

Dempsey was expected to arrive in Miami today to serve as a pallbearer. The ex-heavyweight king still called Kearns "the greatest" despite a feud that separated them.

We had a lot of laughs together and we made a lot of money," Dempsey once said. "He made me champion."

Kearns helped Tex Rickard promote the fight between Dempsey and George Carpenter at Boyle's 30 acres in New Jersey on July 2, 1921. It turned out to be boxing's first million dollar gate.

Michigan Netters Bow From Tourney

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Two Michigan players were eliminated Monday in the first round of men's singles in the Western Open Tennis Tournament. Jim Swift of Detroit beat Don Shirk of Salinas, Calif., 3-6, 6-3, 7-5, but lost later to Ronnie Barnes of Brazil, 4-6, 6-3, 6-3. Tom Long of Northville lost to Bill Tym of Peoria, Ill., 6-1, 7-9, 6-3.

Al Dark Seeking Revenge In Today's All Star Game

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The favored National League was prepared to go all out in today's All-Star game with the leading American League as the series reverted to the original one game plan after four years of double helpings.

About 45,000 fans were expected to turn out in sunny cool weather for the nationally televised (NBC) game starting at noon (EST). This would be some 24,000 off the all-time record of 69,831 set in this same Municipal Stadium for the third game, July 8, 1935.

For Manager Alvin Dark of the San Francisco Giants this was a chance to get even with Manager Ralph Houk of the New York Yankees for last year's World Series. Although Dark's Giants took the Yankees down to the last out in October, they lost when Willie McCovey lined a rocket to Bobby Richardson for the final out in the seventh game. Both McCovey and Richardson were on the squads although neither was a starter.

Jim O'Toole, Cincinnati's talented left-hander with a shiny 13-6 record, was Dark's starting pitcher. The Giants' skipper had a capable staff to follow O'Toole. In addition to southpaws Sandy Koufax of Los Angeles, Warren Spahn of Milwaukee, Hal Woodeshick of Houston, the Nationals had right-hander Don Drysdale of Los Angeles, Juan Marichal of San Francisco, rookie Ray Culp of Philadelphia and Larry Jackson of Chicago.

Dark obviously went for the lefty because the American League's starting lineup had four left-handed batters — first baseman Joe Pepitone of New York, second baseman Nellie Fox of

Women's Champ Cool And Poised

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Margaret Smith, the tall and statuesque 20-year-old from Albury, Australia, wore the laurels of two Wimbledon triumphs with coolness and poise today and laid for all time the gibe that she hasn't got the temperament for the big occasion.

Monday, "Big Marge" slaughtered Susan Moffitt, the Californian teen-ager, in the singles final and won the mixed doubles in partnership with Ken Fletcher.

She nearly emulated Doris Bart's feat of 12 years ago by taking three titles. She lost the women's doubles to Maria Buenos of Brazil and Darlene Hard of Long Beach, Calif., mainly because her partner, Robyn Ebborn, 18, was too nervous for the occasion.

They used to say that Margaret was nervous, too, but she didn't show it in this tournament. Right from the start of the singles final, she looked more confident than the usually bouncy Billie Jean.

The Australian girl won 6-3, 6-4. Billie Jean, who studied all winter and didn't start serious tennis until May, confessed afterwards that you can't concentrate on your education and win top class tennis tournaments, too.

The women's singles final had been postponed from Saturday because of rain. So Margaret didn't have the honor of leading off the Wimbledon ball with McKinley on Saturday night, according to tradition. He danced with his wife, Wylita, instead.

Postal Promotions Set Off Tempest

EDITORS NOTE — The recent promotion of three Negroes in the Dallas, Tex., post office touched off a hometown controversy that spread to Washington. Just how are post office employees selected for promotion and how much leeway do postmasters have in making promotions?

By STANLEY MEISLER

WASHINGTON (AP)—A month ago, three college-educated Negroes won promotions in the Dallas, Tex., post office. What pushed them ahead—ability or the color of their skins?

The promotion of the three set off a tempest in Dallas and in Washington. Some critics cried discrimination against whites.

This Dallas controversy may be a harbinger of things to come, for tempests like it may brew again and again in the Negro struggle for better jobs and better conditions.

Rep. Bruce Alger, R-Tex., who represents Dallas, says the promotions show that "in a direct appeal to racial prejudice and in an effort to submit to threats of violence, the administration has ordered that civil service procedures be ignored and promotions made strictly on the basis of race."

White Workers Figher

Clarence Mitchell, Washington representative of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, dismisses this argument. "The Dallas promotions," he says, "were just one of those things where the government is trying to correct an inequity."

Some postal unions contended that the most qualified of the three Negroes was promoted over 53 white postal workers higher on the Dallas promotion list.

Lee C. White, President Kennedy's assistant special counsel in charge of civil rights, says the promotions were made in accordance with all civil service commission requirements.

The Dallas story began in May 1961 when the Post Office Department inaugurated a "merit promotion plan." Before then, according to Richard J. Murphy, assistant postmaster general in charge of personnel, local postmasters could pretty much decide on their own just whom they would promote.

Point Totals Listed

Under the present plan, workers qualified for promotion are put on a list in order of special point totals. These totals are based on (1) their score on an examination for prospective supervisors, (2) their years of service, and (3) a numerical evaluation given them by their two immediate supervisors.

Murphy says the list is not a strict qualification list: postmasters are not required to promote the top man when an opening comes.

When a list has less than 100 names on it, the postmaster may pick any man on the list. But when a list has more than 100 names, the postmaster, unless he has permission from Washington, must try to pick someone from the top nine. The Dallas list had 400 names.

Last January, Postmaster General J. Edward Day called 600 postmasters to the University of Oklahoma for an unusual seminar. Among the topics discussed was the post office's "program for progress"—a plan to end any discrimination against Negroes and other non-whites in post office hiring, training and promotion.

New Policy Revealed

Under the plan, postmasters of large offices must make monthly reports on their progress. The aim is to report to President Kennedy next March that the post office has developed a comprehensive equal employment opportunity program.

In another aspect of the program, the post office announced a new policy of refusing to lease space in any building that has segregated facilities and of refusing to give a substation contract to any proprietor who runs a store with segregated facilities.

In addition to the University of Oklahoma seminar, 27 postmasters and four regional postal officials from the South have been called to Day's office in Washington since May 23. He has asked them to speed up their programs to end any possible discrimination.

Murphy says Day and other Washington officials did not instruct the Southern postmasters how to do this. The method, Murphy says, was left to the local officials.

During this campaign, Murphy says, Day discovered that the Dallas post office, unlike other offices in Texas, never had a Negro supervisor. Day wrote local officials in Dallas and asked them to look into the matter.

None In Top Nine

The regional headquarters recommended that the Dallas postmaster select Negroes for the next three openings. But, when the openings came, no Negro was among the top nine on the list.

Murphy says Postmaster W. B. Hudson asked Washington for permission to go outside the top nine. Permission was granted.

Three Negroes, Buford R. Tyler, Andrew J. Calloway and Herschel Gillins, were picked. The highest was No. 54 on the list.

Their comparative low position on the list, Murphy says, may be due to discrimination in the Dallas post office. Murphy also notes that Negroes usually have low seniority because jobs in the post office did not open to them until after World War II.

Murphy rejects all arguments that the department is practicing discrimination in reverse.

Two weeks ago, he says, the Post Office Department let a Southern regional office pick a white man as postmaster although a Negro was first on the promotion list there.

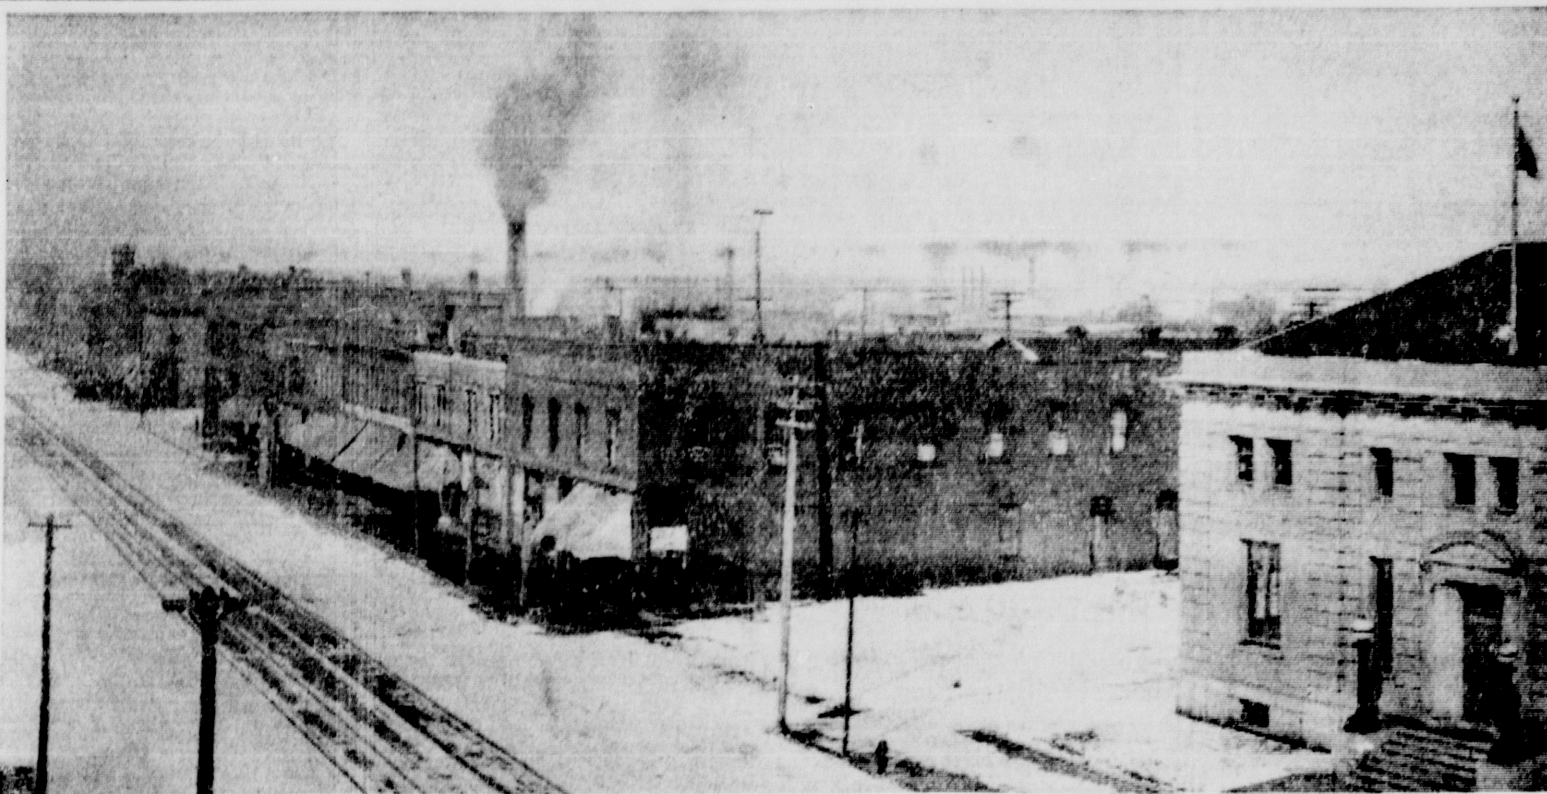

John W. Macy Jr., chairman of the Civil Service Commission, says that the post office, when it promoted the three Negroes, acted in accordance with its own merit promotion program and within the general guidelines of the Civil Service Commission.

Training Starts At Camp Grayling

CAMP GRAYLING (AP)—Michigan National Guardsmen began two weeks of training here Sunday.

This is the first summer of field training under a new program ordered by Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara to streamline the nation's war machine. Almost 8,000 guardsmen made the switch from civilians to soldiers in the past weekend.

All units of the division are beginning a tactical situation, which means no lights at night, fox holes, firing live ammunition, and sleeping under the stars.

Old Escanaba looked this way in one of its busy downtown areas. The scene presents the post office in the right foreground, and the Escanaba Daily Press building of today next to it on the left.

The Delta Hotel, constructed in 1916, had not been built yet nor had the city's steam plant, which would dominate the skyline if the same photograph were made today.

MUCC Asks State Keep Its Lands

LANSING — Michigan United Conservation Clubs officials today called "penny-wise and pound-foolish" proposal by Dow Chemical Co. official to sell all state lands not designated as parks to help solve the state's financial problems.

The recommendations were made to Gov. George W. Romney at a tax and fiscal reform meeting in Midland by Carl A. Gerstacker, chairman of the board at Dow. He also proposed a flat rate income tax for both individuals and industry.

According to the Dow official the state lands are "not productive." Sale of these lands, it was stated, would provide the state with needed revenue and restore them to the tax rolls.

Michigan now owns 4.25 million acres in the state, which constitutes about 12 per cent of the land area. Much of it was acquired through non-payment of taxes.

MUCC Executive Director James L. Rouman said "It appears to us that the idea of selling all state lands not designated as parks is a very shortsighted approach to solving the state's financial problems."

"Anyone with any knowledge of the recreational needs of the state, present and future, must recognize that we will need more land year after year for parks, camping grounds, fishing sites and other uses."

"If the state were to sell this land now," Rouman said, "it would only have to buy back much of it in the future, at much higher prices. The governor's comment that this idea never entered the administration's mind is a good indication of how far out this idea really is."

"Much of the recreational wealth on which the state's third largest industry, tourism, is based depends on the quality and quantity of these lands," Rouman declared. "It is almost unbelievable that executives of a large, profit-making corporation would so attempt to jeopardize the existence of another great industry."

The new state Constitution, which goes into effect in January, has a new section which states that the Legislature shall have general supervisory jurisdiction over all state-owned lands, and provides that the Legislature "may designate any part of such lands as a state land reserve." No lands so designated may be sold, leased or otherwise disposed of except by act of the Legislature.
